

Worldwide GMDN Registration

In February 2005, a formal application was made and subsequent approval issued by the highest international authority for device classification registration – Global Medical Device Nomenclature (GMDN) – an internationally recognized device code body. This ground-breaking action provides MedexTestGlobal Pte. Ltd. with a formalized entry into all of the Territories in which we operate. As a result, Medex Test™ received a significantly lower Australian Regulatory risk classification than might otherwise have been expected.

The GMDN License is imperative in establishing risk level and product evaluation for insurance purposes. Due to the design, construction, and conformity with safety principles, the Medex Test™ system fits comfortably within the standards for indemnity insurance considerations.
